

What Makes Corrugated Cardboard Unique?

Cardboard is a fairly ubiquitous material, found everywhere from everyday grocery store packaging, to gift boxes. However, not all cardboard is made equal when it comes to durability, which is a key component of choosing good quality shipping materials. When it comes to choosing good quality, sturdy, and environmental custom shipping boxes Canada: corrugated cardboard is the only way to go.

First of all, we should explain what corrugated cardboard is, and how this helps it to stand out from other types of cardboard. Corrugated cardboard is different in that it contains multiple different layers. Corrugated cardboard is comprised of two thick cardboard layers that sandwich an inner “corrugated” layer (from which its name stems). These components are also known as “liner” and “medium”. Liner refers to the smooth, flat cardboard that covers both sides of a corrugated cardboard sheet. Whereas medium, refers to the fluted paper found between the two liner layers. This layering is the key to the success of corrugated cardboard. The structural support of the corrugated layer creates a much sturdier material overall, at a very low supplemental cost. Custom boxes Toronto that are made of corrugated cardboard provide so many benefits. One of these, is that aforementioned low cost. This is because corrugated cardboard boxes help provide good quality protection to the goods you are looking to ship for a great price.

However, the built-in protection of corrugated cardboard custom shipping boxes Canada is also great for reaping environmental benefits. Corrugated cardboard is unique in that it is incredibly sturdy and protective, as well as being completely recyclable! This means that opting for corrugated cardboard shipping containers can help save your company money and can also help your company hit their sustainability targets. Corrugated cardboard is also incredibly lightweight, especially for how sturdy and safe it is. This lends even more ease of use when it comes to packaging and shipping operations.

Interested in reaping the benefits of switching to corrugated cardboard boxes today? Look no further than Coleman Containers! At Coleman Containers, we are proud to be corrugated box manufacturers, who can help companies reach their economic, shipping, packaging, and sustainability goals. All with the help of the unique benefits of corrugated cardboard. At Coleman Containers, we offer corrugated cardboard that can be customized to fit your unique company needs. We offer single wall, double wall, and even triple wall corrugated cardboard. We also offer multiple "flute" heights to pick from for your "corrugated" or "medium" layer, so that you and your company always ends up with the perfect product for their specific packaging needs. With a high degree of customization options available, as well as shipping all over Canada and the United States, we at Coleman Containers will help you achieve your shipping goals.

Source: <https://news.macraesbluebook.com/what-makes-corrugated-cardboard-unique/>